

EASY-TO-READ PROGRAMME

ICLife Conference

On 27th and 28th of November 2019,
the final event of the ICLife project will happen in Brussels.

Easy-to-read

ICLife is made up of the words “Inclusive campus life”.

Inclusive campus life is when all people can join in higher education.

This includes people with intellectual disabilities.

Higher education are schools where you learn how to do a job or you prepare to go to university.

EXPLANATIONS

Below you can find some explanations for difficult words:

Easy-to-read

Easy-to-read is information that is written in a simple way so that people with intellectual disabilities can understand.

It is important to use simple words and sentences.

If there are words that are difficult to understand, an explanation is provided.

The text needs to be clear to see,

for example, black writing on a white background is good.

It needs to be well-spaced.

Easy-to-read often uses pictures to explain what the text talks about.

Someone with an intellectual disability needs to check the information is easy to understand.

Easy-to-read documents often have this logo, so it is easier to find them.

There are rules on how easy-to-read should be done.

You can read the European standards of easy-to-read information here:

www.easy-to-read.eu

Education

Education is teaching.

It means to make sure people can learn new things.

Intellectual disability

If you have an intellectual disability, that means it is more difficult for you to understand information and learn new skills than it is for other people.

This makes some parts of life harder.

People with intellectual disabilities often need support in learning or at work.

Intellectual disability often starts before you are an adult.

It affects you for your whole life.

There are things that can make life easier for people with intellectual disabilities.

For example, information in easy-to-read language.

Some people say learning disabilities instead of intellectual disabilities.
