Work Placement

This talks about work placement for people with intellectual disabilities on a campus of higher education.

People with intellectual disabilities want to do work experience while they are at university.

All people with intellectual disabilities have the right to learn new skills.

For a person with intellectual disability it is useful for them to have done some work experience.

The place where the person with intellectual disabilities goes and does his work experience needs to be accessible.

The university should ask the person with intellectual disabilities where they want to do their work experience.

Doing a work placement will give more experience to all people with intellectual disabilities.

The person with intellectual disabilities can have a job coach who will help them in finding the right kind of job
